Tel Aviv Port

The Tel Aviv Port is one of the city's most striking and popular centers for commerce, dining and fun. Located in northwest Tel Aviv along the Mediterranean Sea, the port was opened in 1936 and closed in 1965, when its operations moved to the new Ashdod Port. After many years of disuse, the city of Tel Aviv initiated a major restoration program in the late 90's which was completed in 2006- the result is a thriving area of culture, entertainment, leisure and of course food... Beyond all else, a huge wooden deck covers 150,000 square feet and acts as a huge promenade running along the seafront... A great place to walk before or after a meal at one of many Port eateries.

HaTachana The Old Train Station

HaTachana- the Hebrew name for the railway station which served the Jerusalem-Jaffa line from late 1800's until 1948 - is now home to numerous restaurants, design stores and other centers of leisure, all located in the renovated buildings of the original station. Located between the Tel Aviv Beach and Neve Tzedek, the Tachana is a wonderful combination of old and new, with the flavor of yesterday's pioneers and the taste of Tel Aviv's contemporary design scene.

Neve Tzedek

This newly re-gentrified and picturesque area, one of the first Jewish neighborhoods built outside the walled city of Jaffa, was where Israel's Nobel Laureate for literature Shai Agnon began his career, where artist Nahum Gutman studied in the first Hebrew speaking school and where the first roots of the modern city of Tel Aviv were laid.

Today it is home to the Suzanne Delal dance and cultural center, artists' galleries, fashion shops: cafes as well as many of Tel Aviv's leading restaurants.

Jaffa Flea Market

Fast becoming one of the world's most renowned flea markets, Shuk Hapishpishim (the Jaffa Flea Market), is a synthesis of Middle East authenticity and modern Tel Aviv. You can buy anything from paperclips to antique furniture to gourmet food and books. It is the Jaffa Flea Market that brings to life the famous quote - one person's junk is another's treasure. Beyond the incredible cultural experience, it is a place to have loads of fun while bargaining and haggling your way through the alleyways.

Jaffa

For over 3000 years, the ancient port city of Jaffa served as the Land of Israel's gateway to much of the world. From the Cedars of Lebanon for the Temple in Jerusalem to the first gateway seen by throngs of both Jewish and Christian pilgrims. The artists which line the alleyways of Old Jaffa have long been a significant stop on many a trip to Israel, and now, the Port has been renovated as well. Together, Old Jaffa and Jaffa Port, host a wide array of attractions and eateries which cater to almost any taste and whim.

Sarona

Sarona combines a unique architectural history with a dynamic urban experience. Together they create a center of culture, leisure and shopping in a relaxed and upscale atmosphere. The renewed colony includes an urban park and the accurately restored original 37 buildings of the Templar settlement. These have been transformed into elegant cafes, ritzy restaurants, high-end art galleries and an assortment of specialty shops. With 91 shops, stalls and restaurants of all categories, Sarona Market is Israel's largest, most unique indoor culinary complex. It draws its inspiration from the leading markets worldwide and with the combination of local and global, classic and contemporary, urban and rural, imported preserved products and fresh products.
